Same old school, but crowded halls, rooms made it different

I t wasn't just another year. When walking down the halls of Owensboro High School you could sense the change. We were the same . . . but different.

The two-center era had ended, leaving the Freshmen behind and gaining the Sophomores. OHS seemed like it was truly bursting at the seams.

It was a "tight squeeze" fighting your way to class. Breaking through the mob to cut across the hall was literally impossible.

To add to the confusion, the group of girls in front of you always insisted on stopping smack dab in the middle of the hall to catch up on the latest gossip.

When you left the overcrowded hallways, you usually stepped into crowded classrooms. Many classes were stuffed like sardines. There wasn't a "seat left in the house."

Cutbacks in the teaching positions and a reduction in force led to different names and faces. Elementary or middle school teachers in past years now occupied high school classrooms.

The ghosttown on the third floor came alive again with readin', writin' and 'brain rackin'' filling the once deserted rooms of last year.

The three grades and 1,113 students made for a different feeling even though it was the same building that had been identified as Owensboro High School.

- By Beth Hubbard

The Big Squeeze. With three grades at OHS, one of the biggest problems was the crowded stairways.

Crowded classrooms. "Do we have any empty seats" was the remark made in many OHS classes early in the year. Typical of the crowded classrooms was Suzanne Wills' English class.

New helpers. Gerald Poynter and Gien Newman were new assistant principals at OHS. They check out pre-school assignments with Principal Bill VanWinkle.

Hazardous hallways. Making their way A long wait. Standing in long lines for through the halls was top priority of many caleteria food was something students will OHS students long remember.

Some things didn't change like tests, tardies and truancy

Bringing the three grades together finally made Owensboro High School a family.

You could feel the difference, it just wasn't the same.

Students began showing more school support, wanting to make the "union" a success.

Campaign posters plastered the walls of OHS when student elections rolled around and 27 students ran for the 12 class officer positions. Finally a male broke the three-year all-female rule.

Spirit was at its peak when painted signs covered the walls and floors for the spirit contest between the three grades as fired-up students prepared for the football game with city rival Catholic.

More than a handful proudly cheered the Devils on: win or lose.

Some things never change, though, like catching a wink or two in class, "loving" in the hall, the cafeteria food and dull classes. It never seemed to fail that the night you had to study for the "big" test was also the night your favorite TV program aired.

Tardy students, skipping class, late library books, unprepared homework assignments, and the dreaded report cards were all still a part of school.

Of course the smoking areas were still filled with nicotine puffers, there still wasn't enough room in your locker, the bathrooms still smelled, and the guy sitting next to you failed to use his deoderant.

But without all these "little faults," it wouldn't be OHS.

Yes, OHS was the same, but it was different.

Practice time. Practicing before the pep rally are varsity cheerleaders (top to bottom) Kim Ramirez, Amy Adams, Jamie Leach, Margaret Hocker and Lori Hisa.

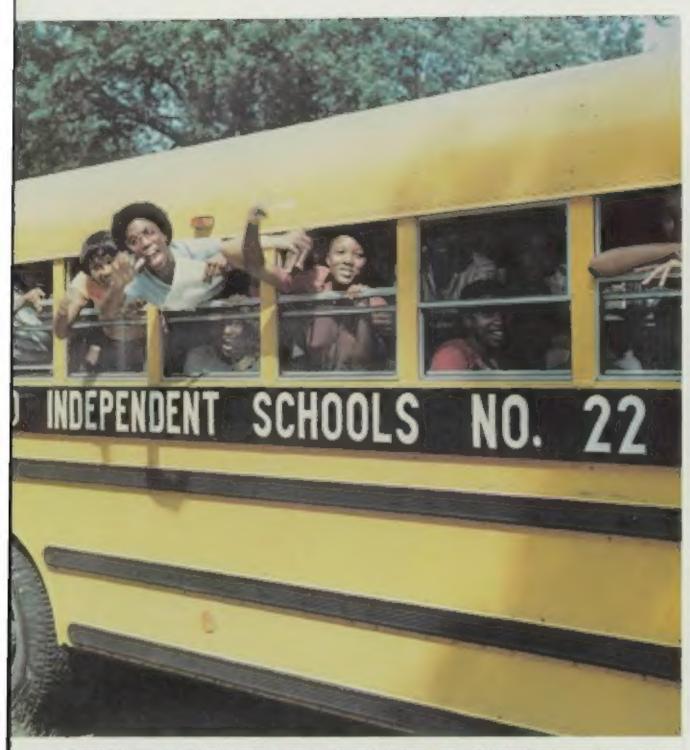

Playing our song. The Owensboro Marching Red Devils played during halftime of the Henderson County football game. The band played at all home football games at Rash Stadium.

Caught in the act. Rose Curtain members Junior Victor Byrd and Seniors Gina Berg and Kathy Harris perform in a scene of the production "The Curious Savage."

Slow feativities. A crowd aways at the Homecoming Dance following the 34-7 victory over Daviess County. Dances provided "fun" times for students during the year.

Spirited busload. Hanging out the window is a busload of OHS students. After school provided a logical reason to be so spirited.

Nap time. Senior Robbie Brown catches a quick nap after fulfilling his appetite. Many OHS students found this a great way to spend their study hall.

Hall talk. Lockers provided a good place for Seniors Jeff Rumage, Judy Davenport and Ricky Paris to converse about school.

More than learning: school time provided start to social life

School is the institution where many think only learning takes place. Usually, though, students look at school as the place to get dates, meet their friends, go to games and parties and have a funtime.

Sport events were probably the biggest single "happening" in the lives of OHS students.

Losing has certainly been a rarity at OHS, and while some sports suffered in 1981-82, the school's long winning tradition was not broken.

Social life before and after school was just as important as the need to study.

Remember all the times you dropped by that special someones house even though Mom told you to be home right after school?

Or you just had to go to the mall to get those pants you've been wanting so badly?

Many students came to school early just to socialize in the parking lot or the hallways while others struggled to get to school before the tardy bell sounded.

Dating, parties, dancing and cruising were all a part of the "after hours" of students lives.

While students were still engaged in the "same old stuff," it was two grades of different people in a different setting and engaged in other "diffs" that paradoxically made it:

The Same, But Different.

Confusion. Several Red Devils and Daviess Countians appear to be confused as to where the football is, but OHS found the football enough during the night to win the homecoming game, 34.7.

Reshuffled personnel was talk of teachers

Realignment led to layoffs; OHS actually lost only six teachers; 'New' personnel from seven schools

t was the early spring of 1981 that teachers began biting their nails, worrying that they would be laid off

Because ut declang ento ment reduced state revenue and school consideration 53 cm, school reachers were and if in the spring of 1981

The decision of who would be re-employed for 1982 was based on the daily newspaper about the sensority in areas of certification

As a result teachers with several years of emp ament were retained causing many students to complain that all the young teachers were being laid

Some reachers were transferred to teach in areas in which they were

The mormum qualification for certification to teach a subject is a college minor in that area

Among the teachers originally laid off were several athletic coaches and both the vocal and instrumenta, music tear here

After all the screaming headlines in dismissal of teachers and long, drawn-out meetings by the Board of Education and wrangling by teachers parents, lawyers and interested per sons, the end results was that only 24 teachers were not rehired by the time school opened in the fail of '82

OHS had 13 traveling teachers in Hills ou were classes different in

In a questionnaire sent to faculty members they responded with a variety of opinions commented "Many students have little interest in school. They only attend school for social contacts English teacher Melinda Hood added. Some students have become very apathetic toward learning. Others put their part time jobs first and school second. Students holding jobs and difference cited in classes working too many hours have really hurt the school's academic program."

The responses from teachers went from one extreme to another

I have fewer students this year who want to waste time. They appear to be here to learn, not to 'play around,"" stated English teacher Suzanne Willis

English teacher Kathy Whitmer History teacher Sandra Girvin observed, "My classes have more self-discipline. A greater number do their work on their own "

> I find that I worry more than the majority of students about their grades ' confided English teacher Bil

Student apathy wasn't the only

PE teacher Randy Embry agreed, My classes are much bigger and more girls are taking PE

Chemistry teacher Beverly Chelgren felt "The class size has remained the same as in the last 5-6 years

For many teachers the biggest difference was teaching older students or unfamiliar subjects

"This is my first year teaching economics. I thought by teaching a required class, that everyone would really try to pass," added economics teacher Sandra Meschko

"I am teaching in the classroom for the first time ever," confided English teacher and Librarian Marilyn Hamil ton

Many teachers were learning to adjust to teaching older students

This year I have an older French I class, so they are helping me come up with different drill activities that fit

their age," said French teacher Mary, Jane Sanford

"I'm teaching older students in a relatively new teaching area, but students have been very cooperative added Carolyn Bradshaw, who teaches exploring childhood and consumer economics

"My classes are different this year because I am teaching older students, the courses in science areas are different and I travel from OHS to OJHS," commented Science teacher Jerry Rhodes

Many teachers have classes located in other schools and had to travel between buildings

"I'm teaching in two new buildings

this year. Working in both the high school and the junior high gives me the opportunity to work with students over a broader age span," noted Art teacher Ann Bruner

Although some found the class changes as negative, math teacher Tom Cost concluded with positive feelings, "This is my first year here, and it is all new but I have found new triends and relationships here. Several classes have developed a willingness and displayed maturity in the handling of new topics and subject matter that is fantastic."

The more changes, the more similarities

Teachers agree that school spirit has declined; the halls, classes and busses remain overcrowded

hanges at OHS are numerous When teachers were confronted with the question, answers were rattled off in several different directions

Each teacher had a different opinion and for many, the answer was a brank, for this was their first year of teaching

Assistant Principal Whaylon Cole man answered. "The addition of the 10th grade to the building makes things oversized in some classrooms and the hallways. Parking is also pushed to its mobbed hallways and no where to park were popular complaints are the biggest change to me. Last year it wasn't half this bad. It's hard getting used to all these Sophs running

Kaye Castlen agreed, "The most obvious change is more crowding and arger classes. I think as the number of students grow, we (the administration) feel a decrease in control of student environment

Another evident change was the lack of school apirtl

Chemistry teacher Beverly Chel gren observed. "The average students are not willing to work as hard as they did 10 years ago. Then, if an assignment was made, it was completed on time, by most of the students, Now, they are not

Many teachers found that they could only find changes from when they were a student at OHS

I can only compare OHS now to the OHS I knew as a student On the minus side I see a puzzling apathy in the students toward their morale and students are less school work and in many toward life in general. They are no longer fired up with a desire to go out and change the world. On the plus side, the students are much freez to talk with teachers and communicate problems as well as

> History teacher Ella Jones added 'Since the 1960's when I came, there have been building changes, building of new wings and additions. Clothing and hair styles have really changed. Can you imagine the girls wearing skirts instead of leans? Now, more students have cars and lobs. There is more Today's students are more conservative than those of the early 1970's," stated English teacher Suzanne Willis.

'I have seen extra-curricular activities lessened because of our work-study program. This has really hurt the

Techniques differ with teachers in developing relationships with their students

ost teachers want to develop a close relationship with their students

Each Individual teacher has their own special technique which they fee. helps them achieve a type of closeness with their students

Variety is the spice of the classroom

Teachers put different activities In their classes to prevent the old hum-drum daily routine A lthough it may not seem like it teachers try hard to put a little variety in class

Like students, they know the same old grind everyday can make one rather bored. Work and tests weren't the only things taking place in the classroom

Teachers had several methods of adding spice to the everyday class sessions

Films, TV shows, field trips and guest speakers were all popular methods of breaking the monotony of the classroom

Business teacher Linda Ford stated "I add variety to my classes by taking field trips and having speakers. I don't use the same routine week after week"

"I try to use audio-visual aids, group work, and a variety of writing assignments to keep the classes from being boring," commented English teacher Suzanne W. Is

"I put a variety in my class by exploring various media and tech niques and taxing advantage of any local art shows at the museums." added art teacher Ann Bruner

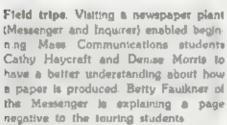

History teacher Ella Jones admitted, My classes are fairly routing — we read, do written assignments, discuss, get lecture and board notes, see films and TV, do oral reports and of course tests."

Class visitor inviting someons to a class was a way many teachers provided class variety. Forrest Teer (below), director of driver training for the State Police, was interviewed in Mass Communications for a Scoop story.

Dreaded homework became a pattern

Whether it was with the stereo on, watching TV in mid-afternoon or at the dinner table, students managed ne of the most unpleasant words to hear during the course of a schoolday is. HOMEWORK

This means lugging stacks of books out of lockers into open arms to be carried in the direction of home, only to be returned the next day, partially completed

This became a pattern practiced by many OHS students

The daily routine of studying is accomplished in a variety of ways from student to student

Some prefer the tranquility of peace and quiet to make studying for that big history test a little easier

Others might congregate with the rest of the family, joining in on the conversation between studying their notes

When studying required a lot of thought, removing one self from others into the privacy of their own room gave homework a chance of being success-

When I come home from school I make my way to my room where I can be alone and start right, on my homework while it's still fresh on my mind," commented Junior Delinda Green

Yet, on some occasions satisfying the stomach comes first. An afternoon snack before "hitting the books"

Pencil is enough. For many Seniors managing to bring a pencil to school was their major class preparation. Stacy Husk heads to class with her pencil in hand

Homework. Carrying books home from school is common among many OHS students. Sophomore Shane Cox takes his homework along as he heads for home.

Packing up. Many students found carrying their books in a briefcase or satchel was the easiest way to transport their achool work. Sophomore LaMont Jones Jr., ends his day by filling his briefcase

makes homework a little easier to handle

For some students blocking out household noises of little brothers or sisters is done by escaping to the sanctity of the stereo

"I always listen to my stereo when It comes to doing my homework whether it's just a reading assignment or figuring math problems, I wouldn't do without it!" exclaimed Junior Alisha November

Trying to make homework pleasant wasn't easy to do. Yet, some students found kicking off their shoes and sprawling out in front of the TV to up on soaps is one way students anwind to "tackle" their homework

However, taking a short cut could be accomplished by simply picking up the nearest phone and giving a friend a call, just to see if their answers corresponded with yours

Going to work and keeping assign ments up are a combination that sometimes doesn't mix too well. Yet OHS students seemed to manage

'I usually don't have much time in the afternoon between school and work so I usually do my homework at night when I get off work, It can be hard at times but I seem to manage it," expressed Sentor Ricky Paris

Yet, homework couldn't always be considered homework when students f and time to do it at scho-

Study halls proved to be helpful when it came to avoiding taking books home. Also, spare time found in lunch PE or in Drivers Education class between driving turns, gave students some additional time for homework we ch left them more time to do what they wanted

! have Drivers Education so when I don't have to drive the extra time is used to do my homework, then I have time for myself when I get home,' stated Junior Karen Alley

Of course, there are the students that swindle their way out of taking books home by fulfilling homework assignments from one class by doing it in another,

However, there are the teachers that realize students have other things to attend to when the day comes to an end and therefore gives time in class to finish assignments

Whatever the manner of studying may be, doing the assigned homework could mean the difference between passing and failing

Students struggle in required classes

To graduate, it takes 18 credits accompanying the hard work in English, math and social studies

The list of requirements to finally march to the beat of "Pomp and Circumstance" certainly takes the four years of high school to furid

Each year you get a couple more requirements completed, only to find you've got a "couple more" to render the next year

The class of '83 will have diplomas that call for up to 22 requirements. The standard diploma is the easiest to attain and is for 18 credits. All three diplomas call for six elective hours, the added hours for the academic and comprehensive diplomas call for extrastudy in math, science and foreign language.

To graduate in 1982, all students were required to take four years of English, two years of science and math, a year of government, history, consumer economics and physical education

Most students found that taking math and science their first two years took a load off their schoolwork their Junior and Senior year. However, many continued on with these subjects for they knew they'd be useful later in the

Separate parking lot spaces, special bathroom stalls and wheelchair ramps are all recognized as belonging to a minority of society — the handicapped

Desk work Math classes required a lot of desk work and board work, and for many students, was a difficult required trass.

Brainy work. Taking the brain out of a cat are Todd Burr and Donna McHenry Biology was another required class that troubled students stomachs and troubled some students at grade card time of classroom was required. Special Education was offered for students who are deal, have visual impairments or have problems that require special learning experiences

OHS had 32 students enrolled n Special Education

Special Education teacher Dottie Welland said. "I've seen positive and negative changes. On the positive side I definitely think the curriculum is being upgraded. But on the other hand the students still show too much negative ness towards them

Most college-bound students chose to take four years math and science for they knew it would be great help to them later

Students discovered that some espects of math and science were needed in almost everything from balancing a checkbook to cooking to going to the grocery

I'm taking both science and mathall four years to prepare myself better for college and the job I plan to receive when I get out of college," explained Sophomore LaMont Jones, Jr.

Although science and math offered a diversity of courses, such as physics, calculus, chemistry and algebra students didn't have the choice of English topics

As always, English classes were filled with grammar, compositions interature, book reports and for seniors

the rirst research paper, which was also a requirement for graduation

English teacher Suzanne Willis explained, "The reason we have students prepare research papers is to better prepare them for college. The research we do is closely related to the actual English classes at college "

Many of the English courses involved special interests. Themes dealt with specific periods of time, particular authors and certain literary works Popular literature studied ranged from Huckleberry Finn to Hamlet

I don't think I could ever forget Hamlet We must have studied it for a month," complained Senior Chris Fischer

Each year students were required to take some form of social studies.

Sophomores faced the duty of completing Consumer Economics. while Juniors labored over History and Seniors faced the last task of successfully finishing Government

I'm kinda glad we're required to take all these classes. We may not realize it now, but later in life we'll be able to succeed and we'll know why. confessed Senior Anita Fares

Class-related clubs aid in understanding

lass-related clubs aid in the learning and understanding of a subject. This type of club also assists in making learning a more interesting and enjoyable experience

An example of a class-related club at OHS is Junior Investigators

This is a class-related club where 'students learn how to do history research and reporting. They look into history topics that a history class usually wouldn't cover in depth or at all," explained Mrs. Ella Jones, Junior Investigators sponsor

The Junior Investigators has been an OHS club since the 1950's when Mrs

Virginia Fitzgerald sponsored the group

After Mrs. Fitzgerald retired, Mrs. Pansy Daniel Inherited the club, Later, when Mrs. Daniel retired, the passed the club onto Mrs. Ella Jones, who is the present sponsor

Junior Investigator was composed of 27 members this year, all of which were students in Mrs Jones' advanced history class

The officers were: Joy Beasley, president, Victor Byrd, vice-president, and Amy Adams, secretary

The students were divided into groups and each group selected a

Lenjoy Junior Investigators because it gives us an insight on the human interest part of history and not just the facts," said Junior Victor Byrd

"It makes learning more interesting and it gives you a break from the normal everyday routine," added Junior Beth Evans

In addition to researching topics, Junior Investigators also had a guest speaker during the spring, and a spring banquet was held the first of May

Other class-related clubs that students participated in were the Foreign Language clubs

They give students an opportunity to learn about other countries, their lifestyles, and their culture," explained the Spanish class teacher, Gladys

Officers this year included: Susan Webster, president, Jannette Stewart

vice president; Stanya Taylor secre tary, and Lisa Sweat, treasurer

The Spanish Club held bake sales throughout the year, and was in charge of sponsoring the Football Homecom ing Dance

As a community project they visited a rest home on St Patrick's Day

The French Club also held a number of fund raisers such as bake sales and the "Guess-How-Many-Jellybeans Are In the Jar Contest "

Profits from fund raisers went toward the planning of a trip to Beech Bend at the end of the year

Homemakers, Drama, Horticulture and TWC

Students gain enjoyment and self-respect by getting into activities that help others

P aying dues is one way of joining a club but for Teens Who Care, Rose Curtain, Thespians, Future Homemakers of America and the Horticulture clubs, paying dues meant very little compared to the enjoyment gained through group participation

Rose Curtain, sponsored by Bill Jury, had 51 members working on productions two times a week for two and three hours a session. The goal was to help produce successful fall and spring productions

The fall production was "Curious Savage" and the spring musical was

"Once Upon a Mattress."

"Hopefully the students gained poise, self-discipline and a general knowledge of the theatre." said Sponsor Bill Jury

Thespians, also a drama related c, ub and sponsored by Jury, is an honor organization. It is designed to recognize outstanding drama students. Each member must have been involved in at least two productions and contributed 100 hours of drama participation

Members in the club took a trip to New York City during Spring Break where they viewed live Broadway productions

Future Homemakers of America enabled students to learn of activities related to Home Economics

In November the club had a candy making session, in December the club attended the Future Homemakers Convention held at the Executive Innand in March a make-up demonstration was given to 15 members

Jean Chapman served as sponsor of FHA. The club had many fundraising programs in which the proceeds went toward the Kentucky Association of FHA scholarship

Sponsored by Ron Cooper, the Horticulture Club enabled students to Horticulture Club members entered potted plants, landscaping designs and floral arrangements in the Kentucky State Fair. The fair was held Aug 13:22

There were 21 first place ribbons, three second place ribbons and one third place ribbon awarded to the OHS students

Senior John Poynter received a Grand Champton ribbon for the best floral arrangement

The club also had their annual poinsetta Christmas sole in which the proceeds were put back in the club to buy materials such as seeds and soils

'Working with people and getting to know and understand those that are a little different." were the reasons Britt Gray gave as a member of Teens Who Care

The club met once a week and held parties at the Wendell Foster Center. The club also helped in giving their support at the Special Olympics.

Bake sales and car washes were held to raise money for food baskets during Christman and Thanksgiving

"I like the idea of students helping others who are in need," said sponsor

Kaye Castlen. "It is an important part of our culture," she added

Whether a club was involved in growing plants or rehearsing plays, each member put in a lot of extra-curricular time

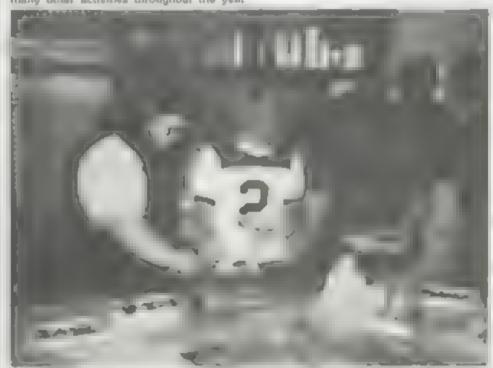

Senior Robin Atwell summarized club involvement by saying: "Even though there is no grade involved for participation, it still gives me a good feeling to know that I have enough self-respect to want to get involved, not just for a grade, but for myself."

the lives of many OHS students

They enable students to share common interests and talents and to gain new friendships

Students commented that they enjoyed belonging to clubs because it gave them a sense of responsibility and taught them how to organize and work with fellow students

Although there has been a decline in the number of students participating in clubs, there are still those few clubs that will always hold a high rate of interest and participation among

SIA is a girls club which was formed in order to promote spirit throughout the school

It has the largest number of members of an OHS club, 92, and the only membership requirement is a $3 dues fee to be paid at the beginning of the year

SIA officers were Holly Nall, president; Robin Shacklett, vice president; Ann Laswell, secretary, and Laura Hughes, sergeant-at-arms Di Roy Woodward was the club sponsor

They attended football and basket ball games and faithfully cheered the Red Devils on to victory

Along with the many activities that SIA sponsored, they operated the school store. The group held fund raisers which included bake sales, carwashes, selling of "Devu Hands" and "I Love the Devils" bumper stickers

Profits from fund raisers went toward the planning of the Valentines Dance, a trip at the end of the year and a $100 scholarship that is awarded to an outstanding senior member each

Junior Mary Jo VanWinkle com mented. "I have been a member of SIA really enjoyed all three years

"I feel it is a very rewarding club because it encourages the students to support our athletic teams and I think that's important

Another large club at OHS is the National Honor Society, sponsored by Joan Robertson

NHS was formed so that students with high grades could be recognized for the work and time they put into academics

NHS officers were Sarah Ryan president; Betty Plain, vice-president, Cherl Jones, secretary, Susan Brown, treasurer, Joy Beasley and Roger Anderson Jr., representatives

National Honor Society, you must be inducted with a 3.7 grade point average (Sophomore). Juniors and Seniors must have a 3.5 grade point average to be inducted

Students must also work 15 voiun tary service hours, attend six of eight regular meetings, work on two commit tees, and maintain a 3.5 grade point average

NHS really gives you a sense of accompashment, and it motivates me to keep my good grades up, because it would be quite humiliating to be removed from NHS! All of the members really try to do things that will benefit the school and I feel its a very worthwhile organization," explained Junior Victor Byrd

Junior Holly Hicks commented 'NHS helps me to use my leadership ability more than I would otherwise I think it is a very worthwhile club, but I don't think we do as much for the community as the other NHS charters n the state do We need to be more

NHS activities held this year were a chili supper, carnation sale, rummage sale and the induction ceremony

Money earned from activities go towards providing the school with filmstrips and books and some money ts given for an NHS Sentor scholarsh.p.

BZZZZ: Students, mostly girls, find that 6 a.m. comes too early

Early hours. Waking up at early hours ten't unusual for most OHS students. Sophomore Tammy McKinney gets up early to blow-dry her half

You're lying in bed, snoozing peacefully Suddenly the piercing sound of the alarm clock fills your ears. You reach over and sleepily glance at the clock. Doubtfully you ask yourself, "It's 6 o'clock, already?"

Slowly but surely you pull yourself out of bed and start the long tedious morning routine of getting ready for school. But at six o'clock in the morning?

For some OHS students, mainly girls, rising at 6 a.m. seemed quite normal. Students found that if you want to look good, you have to work at it, no matter how early

"I've always gotten up at 6 a m. and I hate it! It's still dark outside and it's hard to wake yourself up. But, if I don't make it up by then I'll NEVER make it to school on time," complained students

Long gone are the days when girls rolled out of bed, slipped into a pair of jeans with deliberately shredded cuffs, pulled on a shirt and left the house

Now they must allow time for hot rollers to heat up and work their magic, plus wash and dry their hair Dress pants had to be ironed to obtain desirable crisp pleats and if the look was a dress, hose had to be swiped from your mothers dresser

You had to get up with the birds if braided hair was part of your "look for the day," for some girls found it took longer to braid their hair than actually wash, dry, and cur!

However, some students were lucky and got extra minutes to snooze and still looked good

But, for those who just couldn't beat the 6 o'clock alarm, the night before was used washing and drying hair. Some students even got Mom to iron their pants. Short hairstyles for guys and kinky perm for both sexes helped beat the early morning blues.

Naturally there was always the other side of the coin as one student commented. "I'm lucky to be out of bad by 7.30 a.m., I guess I'm the type who rolls out of bad and just lucky the look half decent."

A new week of school, work, deadlines and pressure

Mondays were usually the day when all the school gossip was released hot off the presses and as the day progressed, whispers of what Jane Doe did Saturday night left students with looks of disbelief and amazement

Monday's also mean a full week of juggling homework, activities and Jobs for many. There just didn't seem to be enough hours in the day to get everything accomplished, so many students usually omitted their homework in order to attend the big basketball game. But when the English assignment was being taken up the next day. many students found it was a bad choice

It can also mean a broken heart for some after spending a lonely weekend without a boyfriend because of an argument or staying home on Saturday night watching "Love Boat" because everyone had a date but you

As the week progressed, the mid-week bogdown began to sit in Students no longer were sleeping during class, but were daydreaming about their weekend plans, or that big date they had for Friday night

Concerts: A wide variety of students flood to area concerts

The stadium is crowded it seems we a million people are scattered throughout the bleachers. On the floor, there is standing room on . The snake uses and the mase stays steady at a dull roar. The lights dim and an excited crowd appraids. The concert is about to begin.

The louder the music the more enjoyable it is among students

Name groups made their appearances nearby and floods of OHS students attenzed

"A bunch of music goets is the way one student described the interest in concerts."

As the demand for good entertainment uses, prices also rise to a sky-high rate. The cist of attending concerts is a little disturbing but just being there" made it all worthwhile.

On the average, the price of a concert ticket is $9; but along with the ticket cost is the cost of driving to the concert as not too many groups appear in Owensboro

Evansville provides the Owensboro area with the most groups, Occasionally students took "road trips" to Louisville, Lexington and Nashville to catch some "hot groups

Popular recording stars such as Stax "Rush" "Foreigner," Billy Squire, "ZZ Top," Blue Oyster Cult," J Geils Band and "Foghat have appeared at Roberts Stadium in Evansville

Louisville hosted "The Commodores Earth, Wind & Fire," Rod Stewart, Rick Springfield, Rick James and "The Kinks

The bitter cold temperatures and icy street conditions didn't stop students from attending the "ZZ Top" concert on Feb. 3, "Grand Funk was scheduled to appear with them, but they didn't show An Evansville band, The Taylor Bay Band" took their place

David Clark commented on the "ZZ Top concert, "A lot of people showed up considering the bad weather but it was good."

Barbra Long enjoyed "Blue Oyster Cult" because, "I got right near the stage I really like that group and the music sounded good

Erik Ford liked the "Rush" Moving Pictures tour He explained, "It had the best light show and it lasted longer than the other concerts."

Pam Ross got country and took a trip to the Hank Williams Jr., and "Midnight Flyer concert She commented, "It was outside and It lasted for 12 hours

Jeff Moore chose the "Styx" Paradise Theater tour. The music was louder and it wasn't so hot inside

HOLIDAYS: A time of parties, relaxing and boredom

Decorations of red and green, long lines at the department store checkout counter, parades and crowded shopping areas all contributed to the signs of Christmas, and the weeks before found students preparing for the longest vacation of the school year, as they studied for exams and finished up their holiday gift shopping

Many students complained that Thanksgiving vacation "just wasn't long enough" and rejuced happily at the arrival of their two week Christmas vacation

Trees, presents and parties took precedence over almost everything else and everybody was caught up in the excitement of the season of giving and the approach of another new year

Christmas brought new jobs to many students during the holidays. Senior Jeff Hall made extra cash by portraying St. Nick at the Towne Square Mail while Senior Laura Hughes and Junior Ann Wathen wrapped Christmas gifts in local stores

"The best thing about our two week vacation was being able to party down on New Year's Eve," stated Junior Barbara Long. Along with the new year came the below freezing temperatures, snow covered lawns, ice glazed roads and the unexpected vacations. Many students found that when the snow fell, school attendance was out of the question

Instead of being found in the classroom they were sure to be found caught up in the winter fun

One of the most popular activities was sled riding. Everyone could enjoy this since there is only a minimum amount of equipment needed Students used trash can lids, sleds and inner tubes to make a quick trip down the long hill

Although snowballing is not permitted on school property, it was not surprising for students to see an unsuspecting student being torpedoed with a snowball

Creative students, who also enjoyed the snow, put their talents to work by building snowmen and snow sculptures

Students, who had a yearning for the slopes and were not snowed in, packed their skis and other equipment and headed for the nearby Paoil Peaks ski resort

The students who were snowbound or were not the outdoor type usually watched television, worked on hobbies or were just plain bored But when the vacation had ended and the time for school had come again most students were counting down the days until spring break

Todd Anderson and Todd Burr were the first males to reign as Student Council president and vice-president since 1976

Other officers for 1982 were: Corresponding Secretary Donna Richards; Recording Secretary Ann Laswell; and Treasurer Lisa

The Student Council officers also appointed 12 students as the executive board to attend meetings and assist the council on decisions and new ideas

These students were: Scott Boling, Robin Shacklett, Holly Nall, Ben Keely, Joy Beasley, Victor Byrd, Dezi Douglas, Keitha Powers, Margaret Hocker, Stanya Taylor, Chris Gaddis and Ted Wahl

The Student Council began the year with an idea that would end the parking problem

They had plans drawn up for an additional parking lot that would be located between the Longfellow Learning Center and the OHS cafeteria, but when the plans were taken to the school board, the idea was tabled

Other activities which helped to brighten the arrival of school were the "Send-A Kiss" of "Nifty Fifties Day," "College Day," and "Red and Black Day "

In order to show appreciation for the faculty and staff, such activities as "Teacher's Appreciation Day" at Christmas, "Secret Pals," which was sponsored by both Student Council and NHS, and the "Happy Birthday" program

"We gave the caleteria personnel red and black OHS aprons in recognition for their participation in school activities and to help them feel more a part of the school," said President Todd Anderson

A Christmas food drive for the Salvation Army, the annual magazine drive and the Basketball Homecoming Dance were also sponsared by Student Council

Along with planning these many activities. Student Council took charge in organizing class officer elections, Basketball and Football Homecoming elections, "Mr and Miss" elections and "Senior Superlatives."

PROM. Couples gathered into a beautiful setting for 'This One's For You'

Anticipated Arrival. Awaiting the entrance to the 1982 Prom "This One's For You," is Hostess Stephanic Bellamy. The tradition of entering Prom at gate 5 was broken this year as couples entered through the stage doors.

A seach couple entered prom in their most formal attire, their names were trumpeted one-by-one throughout the Sportscenter for everyone to acknowledge their arrival Casually they stroiled down the steps of the stage and entered a most memorable garden party

Each couple was given the maximum red carpet treatment as they were certain: "This One's For You"

Theme for the 1981 Junior Senior Prom was "This One's For You," an idea that revolved around the Barry Manilow song

The junior class officers wrote to the seniors. "This garden party, the 1982 Junior Senior Prom was planned with you in mind. We hope it will be a night to remember even after graduation."

Prom was held at the Sportscenter on April 30 from 8 p.m. to midnight

Traditionally couples have always entered prom from gate five but this year that tradition was broken when the couples were asked to enter the dance from the stage door

Couples were immediately greeted by two of the 12 hosts or hostesses, then the ladies were escorted down the stage while their dates followed behind. Sophomore Chris Gaddis served as the announcer Benji DeWitt was the escorter

A total of 480 students attended prom, up 30 from the 1981 attendance

"Midnight Flyer" provided the music for the evening. This marked the second straight year the band has played for prom-

"It turned out so much better than I thought it would. At first I didn't think we had enough decorations but when we got down there (Sportscenter) we found that we had plenty," said Junior Class Secretary Mary Jo VanWinke

Mrs. Linda Ford and Margaret Knott served as prom sponsors. Both admitted this was their first year but were pleased with the finished product

The "Southern Belle" look was in among the girls with big hooped dresses. The slinky dresses of yesteryear changed to lace and ruffles this year

The tuxes were of various colors and some included top hats and canes

Girls checked out of school for hair appointments, facials and last minute preparations before the big event. Guys checked out for hair cuts, shaves, to make reservations and to wash the car.

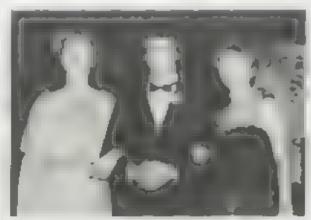

The Briarpatch, T. Twiggs and Gabe's were crowded during the dinner rush while Jerry's Sambo's and the Executive Inn got most of the breakfast rush.

After the prom, many couples headed for parties until the early hours of the morning when they went out for breakfast. Parties at friends houses or at their own houses were common.

Although prom was expensive, sometimes ranging up to $250 a couple, it was a night that won't easily be longotten

Exercise and work. Riding a bicycle was a popular way to exercise and it was also a form of work for Mike Church as he delivers papers on his bike

Outdoor action. Playing basketbail on an outdoor court was still a popular lesure time activity Enjoying one-on-one play is Mike Church and Dean Howard

Tennis time. Tennis was popular with students during warm weather time. Many students got the fundamentals of the sport in a PE class. Serving to an opponent is Howell Roach

PASTIMES. Students got involved in their 'own kind' of sport

Many OHS students participated in organized school athletics but they still found time between homework and dating to get involved in leisure or non-team sports

Summer days got bikers and motocross riders active and found students summing and swimming during the summer vacation days

A few students engaged in horseback riding while others chose bowling and skating

When winter came, OHS students didn't stay in the house and huidle around the lireplace. They could be found at any number of the local churches playing in the church hasketball league, playing intramural basketball in the school gym or knocking a puck around on a hockey field.

High school students are still concerned about their appearances. Exercising, swimming and racquetball were several ways OHS students

heat the blubber

Weightlifting was not done by just the male students. Several female students at OHS would indulge themselves for hours at a time

When the birds began to sing in springtime OHS students could be found high in the air above trampolines in their backyard. Some students even got deeply involved in archery

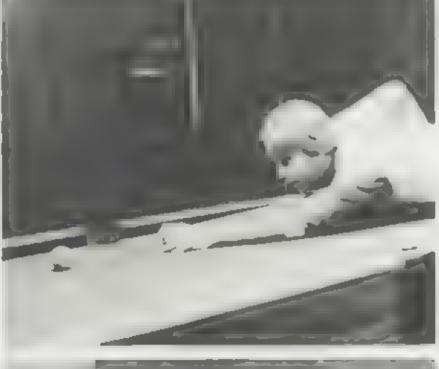

Checkers, chess and backgammon, along with a great "deal" of card games, were less strenuous inside the home activities for students

Fishing, boating and skiing, both water and snow, were the favorite sport of some students

Even though a lot of OHS students may not be in the ilmelight or share the spotlight in organized school sports, they still have a lot of fun "doing their own thing" in their own sport

What's in, is usually out by the time you get it; but as the saying goes: "Out with the old, in with the new "

The most talked about craze this year was the four-sided "Rubik's Cube" This multicolored cube puzzled many students during homeroom, boring classes, on the bus and at home watching TV

The object of solving the cube was to arrange all sides in one color

Fads of bandanas and headbands wrapped around the head between the eyebrow and hair line have also been popular. The wrap-around was from leather to lace

Face painting, such as a pitchfork beside the eye and by the cheek, were in for a while Eyeliner provided the paint, as for the painting, usually a mother was around to help out

During the middle of the year, one keychain, accompanied by about 20 more, became popular Girls didn't find it as much of a hassle to shuffle through their purse in search of their keys perms became a familiar sight among both girls hula hoops and bee bops and guys. Brack males found the shorter style hair cut with a part on either the left or right side a change of pace. French braids continued to keep hair up and looking neat

Jewelry fads came in the form of wearing gold chains of assorted links around the neck

Crayons-shaped stick pins, earrings and barettes in a rainbow of colors became popular with the girls

Music fads came in "New Wave" rock tol. "Quarterflash," "The Time," "Wrabbit" and the all-girl band -- "The Go-Gos" sounded good to Hiking boots walked into the picture in the fall. Rubber soled boots, usually with red shoestrings, popped up and kept feet warm during the winter

Fabric stores attracted many students to the ribbon department. Girls made ribboned beits and hair barettes with the materia.

Video games and arcades became a very popular thing to do, "PacMan" and Atari were the favorite kinds of video productions

The fads will continue to come and go. Who Hairstyles had a turn to change. Kinky knows, they might even bring back yo-yo's.

The rating on the 1982 yearbook you have in hand won't be known until October, but the 1980 yearbook was recognized nationally during the year and the 1981 staff learned that the "Devil's Diary" earned a first class rating

The first place rating was from the National Scholastic Press Association. Later in the year the '81 book received a "Medalist" rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and "All-Columbian" marks of distinction for copy and structure and photography

At the National Scholastic Press Association meeting in Kansas City, Yearbook Advisor James Elkins was presented a "Pacesetter" runner up plaque for the 1980 yearbook From the Ali American yearbooks, eight are picked — four as winners and four as runners-up - in the Pacesetter competition

In addition to the Pacesetter plaque, three pages from the '80 yearbook were used as "How To" examples in the new guidebook published by the NSPA

Adviser James Elkins was recognized during the year with the "Gold Key Award" from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association

Elkins was one of 17 recipients of the Gold Key Award. From the professional ranks, Walter Cronkrite was honored with the "Gold Key."

The "Gold Key Award" is for long and distinguished service to the field of journalism

After looking at the 1981 yearbook, Judge Bonnie Frevert concluded, "It was a delight to read your yearbook. It was filled with details about the year along with good visual presentation,"

Judy Davenport, assistant editor of "The Devil's Diary," talked about why she thought the book did not get the Al-American rating

"You could tell we didn't have an experienced staff Going to the Ball State Journalism Workshop he.ped, but there were a lot of things we didn't know."

Editors for the 1981 yearbook were Tim Bevil and Sherry Ashby. Editors for the '81 Scoop were Nancy Hanberry and Chris Fischer

Beth Hubbard served as yearbook editor in 1982 Chris Fischer took over the role as Scoop editor in '82

The Scoop did win the All-American rating for both semesters. Scoop Editor Chris Fischer admitted that there were problems encountered during the 1981-82 school year. "It was a challenge getting to know the new staff and getting everyone to pull together to put out a good paper and finding interesting stories."

Kathy Harris and Cheryl Cecil were co-editors of the '82 edition of Ethos

ROYALTY Dreams become realities as students win honors

B sing named homecoming queen by fellow students in the midst of the limelight is the dream of almost every girl

For Seniors Ann Laswell and Donna Richards that almost impossible dream became a reality in 1981-82 as they were crowned OHS royalty

"I didn't think I would win I thought it was an honor just to be nominated," said Ann after she was crowned Football Homecoming Queen

The nominees for football homecoming queen were chosen by the football players, who elected three nominees from each class to be attendants. Those chosen were voted on in homeroom and the final results were not known until the crowning took place during halftime of the Owensboro-Daviess County game

The four girls nominated for football homecoming queen were: Ann, first runner-up Sarah Ryan, second runner-up Monzita Johnson and third runner-up Shawna Bush

The girls chosen for attendants were Junior Janette Stewart and Sophomore Kim Ramirez

Each girl was escorted by her father, breaking the tradition of having an ROTC officer escort

"I was so excited and honored about being crowned Basketball Homecoming Queen, I didn't think I'd even be nominated," said Donna about her victory. Donna shared her royalty with Senior Fred Hina who was named Basketbal

Homecoming King. The ceremony took place during halftime of the OHS-Paducah Tighman game on Jan. 15

The royalty's court consisted of first runners-up Judy Hardesty and Tyler McKinney second runners-up Shawna Bush and Paul Jackson and third runners-up Monata Johnson and Mark McFarland The queen nominees were selected by the boys basketball team and the King nominees were chosen by the girls basketball team

The football attendants were Junior Amy Adams and Brad Loucks and Sophomores Shawna Ware and Eric Loucks

OHS also had a less formal crowning with Seniors Anne Wilcheck and Jeff Howard taking honors as Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner. Ann and Jeff were nominated by members of the Chorus and were selected from the nominees by a vote of the entire student body.

Every year as a custom Daisy Mae catches Lil' Abner. This year the chase was held during halftime of the Owensboro-Henderson County game and as tradition goes, Daisy Mae came out on top

Following each crowning ceremony a dance usually followed. For those not elected to a royalty position, dancing with your favorite guy or gal made their dream complete pride, school spirit and the urge to win. After school, though, their interests and hobbies took on different dimensions

Junior Tina Bowies collects oriental items for a hobby. She got started in the fifth grade. when she got a Chinese lamp for Christmas

"I kept getting more things from my parents. They travel to California a lot, and always bring me back a Chinese doll The 11 dolls I have are worth $12 apiece," the junior

Her collection also includes opental jewelry calendars, t-shirts, stamps, a purse embrodiered in 14 karat gold and a jewelry box that is completely silk

Tina compared Oriental work to the art done by Americans, "I like Oriental art because of the detail. It seems like they work harder at It than Americans do. Their art is more delicate

Another unusual hobby is collecting perfumes. Sophomore Tracy Galloway has 20 perfumes and has collected them over the past three years

"Many perfumes were given to me for presents and I bought some of them muself I have several from Paris - Fleurs de rocaille. Le de Guenchy, Balde Bain, Fidji and Arpege," Tracy commented

I keep the bottles after I use the perfumes because some have weird shapes or designs on them 1

With a collection including 200 coins and valued at $1,000, Sophomore Ken McDonald continues the collection his grandfather started

"He left me his penny collection when I was six years old and I've been adding more coins since then," Ken explains

I keep my eyes open for good deals on

> "I expect to keep my collection a long time, because I think they will become an expensive collection in the years to come."

> Smurfs are one inch high blue creatures with individual personalities. They live in their own world exempt from humans

> A hobby that interests senior Stephame Lockett is collecting ink pens. She has 25 pens. that are either from different states, have weird shapes or are extraordinarily different > Twe had this hobby for the past two years Right now, the most expensive pen I have cost me $15. Most are not more than a few do lars."

> The senior gets her pens from noveity stores and most stores that have pens. "I especially find them when I go on vacation and at amusement

> 'The weirdest pen I have is a red hot pepper pen. It's one of the spiciest pens I have! Next, I hope to get a digital pen," concluded

> Many students found that hobbies provided the perfect time for relaxation and gave them something to do after school

Sister talk. Talking between classes are sisters Moneto Johnson and Talita Johnson. Although some siblings ignored each other at school, Moneta and Talita could frequently be seen together. Clothes and smarting off to each other were areas of their sibling "fights."

Family Lockerl All three Miller brothers and sisters share a school locker. They are (from left) Kevin Miner his twin sister Kayla Miller and sister Kelly Miller

SIBLINGS: Getting along with that brother or sister

Getting along with

Sibling rivalry is when the children in the family compete with each other for attention, grades, in sports and other various areas

I always do everything around the house and never get any credit for it! You never get in trouble for anything and you always get to do what you want to!"

Well! You are always borrowing money and my clothes without asking, you just make me so mad!"

This could well be the comments at the Loucks' house when Brad and Eric Loucks get into a heated discussion

"Sometimes Eric and I fight over what to watch on television, but mostly I get mad when he borrows things without asking," said Brad, an OHS junior

"Steve always made good grades and now it seems everyone is expecting me to do the same as he did and it's very hard," said Brad about older brother Steve, an '81 graudate of

Eric doesn't seem to be bothered by those things. "Brad always gets to do what he wants and never gets in trouble," was Eric's comments.

"I make better grades than Butch (Grenier) does, but I know he really tries his best to get good grades because I do," commented Senior Julie Grenier

Being twins never gets in the way of fighting when it comes to Sensors Talita and Monzita

"Just because we're twins and people think a family life one of the most common that we are so much aske that doesn't mean we don't fight Actually we fight a lot," replied

> 'I guess we fight about most things twins would fight about, like what clothes to wear what shoes to wear and how to wear --commented Monata

> Monzita and Talita also fight when one or the other smarts off

> When we get done with all the yelling we usually go into a deep silence and when we look at each other we give each other dirty looks, said Monzita

> Brad and Eric don't talk to each other after a fight either

> I always try to think of things to do to him to make him mad. Sometimes when he does something that makes me mad I always try to do the same to him," said Brad

> Brad and I leave our problems at home so at school we don't light," added Eric

> "Sometimes when I see Julie at school I'll bug her for money Otherwise, we are like best friends." commented Butch

Monzita and I just hang around each other and leave the fighting at home," concluded

Fighting a lot with a brother or a sister could make you want to trade them

"I wouldn't trade Butch for another brother or sister. We may fight a lot but he's the only one I could get along with because he helps me with some of my problems. Butch and I really do understand each other," concluded Julie

date, there are also some who are already married among seniors. Heads usually turn when the without a second thought

Sheri Johnson Morris, a senior who has been married over a year, explained the difference between marriage and dating. "I don't think there's anything different I dated my husband so long (two years) that I felt like I was already married to him. We don't go out as often but we still get along okay."

'The advantages of being married are that you can do what you want without worrying of most OHS students about your parents catching you. The disadvangoing out as often," said Sheri

"Being married doesn't interfere with going to school because my husband works during the day and I don't have anything else to do but go to school. Besides, he would kill me if I quit," Shert concluded married since February Her view of the advantages of marriage was: "You are your own how you spend your money, you don't go out as much and cleaning the house. A lot of things change," explained Robin

Erin Hayden Strobel, a senior, has a stightly doesn't " ating and marriage . . . Does it interfere different marriage, Erin has been married since March 9

"At this point I haven't really experienced all the aspects of married life activities. My While most students at OHS are allowed to husband and I are separated all week because of school," Erin explained

Erin's opinion of the difference between Marriage seemed to be a popular subject dating and marriage was, "I naturally leel more secure in a married relationship than in a dating word marriage arises, but OHS students took it relationship. I am more concerned with how much money we spend, when we go out, plus I feel as if we are one, not two."

"I wouldn't say that marriage actually interferes with school for me. But it does at times make me feel separated from everyone else 1 no longer get excited about outside school activities. It definitely has not affected my grades or attendance ' Erin concluded

Dating, of course, was the favorite pastime

For most students, going to the movies and tages are cooking, cleaning, laundry and not out to eat was a typical date Parties were also part of the scene > in the question, 'Does dating interfere with school?' some replies were, "No, because I'm not allowed to go out on school nights," explained Sophomore Angle Faught

"No, it doesn't interfere because I do my Robin Griffith Lanham, a senior, has been homework when I get home from school," replied Sophomore Charles Grundy

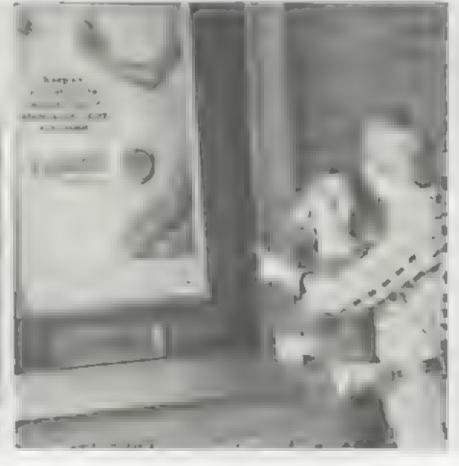

Sophomore Renee Romans explained, "I boss. The disadvantages are you have to watch have a schedule for my homework everyday, so it doesn't really effect it."

Senior Pam Ross concluded by simply saying, "Sometimes it does, cometimes it

DRAMA Plays were 'Curious Savage,' Once Upon A Mattress'

"Oh no." Caught in the act of curling her hair is Senior Gina Berg. Hair styling was just one preparation for the fall performance.

The curtain opens and the setting is inside a castle. It's the set design for the spring musical, "Once Upon a Mattress."

The play was a musical-comedy based loosely on the fairy tale "The Princess and the Pea" This fairy tale talks of a prince trying to find a princess to marry so that everyone else in the kingdom can get married. Princess Winifred came along and swam the most to get to the castle and the queen decides to give Winifred a test to see if she is of royal blood Queen Aggrabaine put a tiny pea under 20 mattresses and if Winifred felt that pea and couldn't sleep then Winifred was a true Princess

The play was on May 6-8 and starred Kathy Harris as "Princess Winifred," Victor Byrd as "Prince Dauntless," James Dantic as King Sestimus," Lena Simmons as "Queen Aggrabaine," John Rowan as "Sir Harry, Manica Goodwin as "Lady Larkin," Billy Mosley as "The Minstrel," Steven Johnson as "The Jesters' Laurie White as "The Wizardess," Debbie Sparks as "Princess #12," Chris Turner as "Sir Studley," John Poynter as "Sir Luce," Mike Weich as "The Third Knight," Mary Paris, as "Lady Rowen," Anne Wathen as "Lady Lucille," Lori Kelley as "Lady Merrill," and Kathy King as "Lady Maybelle."

The Chorus included M.ke Weich, Darrell Wedding, Mark Abrams, Lorie Hayden, Donna Bell, Lori Ford, Joy Beasiey, Carol Payne, Donna Richards, Linda Crooks, Sandy Modett and Cindy Latham

The fall production, which ran Nov. 19-21, was a dramatic comedy by John Patrick called "The Curious Savage"

The play took place in a home for people with a slightly different view of life. It begins with a new addition, Mrs. Ethel P. Savage (Kathy Harris), as a new patient. Mrs. Savage's children betieved she had gone crazy when she decided to join an acting troupe and carries a huge teddy bear around. Her children had no idea she had all their money in that bear

The patients in the hospital were played by Billy Mosely as "Hannibal," Gina Berg as "Florence," Victor Byrd as "Jeff," Debbie Sparks as "Fairy Mae," and Anne Wathen as "Miss Wille"

Mrs. Savage's children were played by Lena Simmons as "Lily Belle," and Chris Turner as "Samual"

Others in the cast were Tommy Cox as "Dr Emmatt," and Laurie White as Dr. Emmitt's secretary

Bill Jury, director of Rose Curtain, praised the work of the sets and prop crew, especially for the spring production

Attendance at the two plays'were also up for the year

The payoff for all the hard work, the de termination to excell came on May 5.

It was Honor's Day, the year-ending event that recognizes the outstanding accomplishments of students, primarily seniors

The 85-degree temperature did nothing to help ease the tension in Rash Stadium as the honored students sat on the edge of their chairs on the football field while the student body peered down from the stands

As the final stirring notes of the National Anthem was sung by Monsca Goodwin drifted through the stadium, the applause broke the tension as name after name was called to receive everything from a certificate to an engraved plaque to $500 in cash or mere name recognition for receiving a scholarship

Honors were given in art, math, foreign language, English, horticulture, physical education, drama, music, journalism, business education, cittzenship, social studies, ROTC, and cheerleading

Besides awards for academics, some 57 scholarships were given to students who were outstanding achievers in their areas

Kevin Bryant was the biggest winner as his name was called eight times during the 40 minute program. He walked away with the University of Chicago Gift Assistance Scholarship for $3,600 and the University of Chicago Merit Scholarship, which ranges from $1,000 to $7,000 per year Bryant also received the Alcoa Academic Scholarship

The OHS Senior also won the award for salutatorian honors, along with the Bausch and Lomb Honorary Science Award, the Superior Cadet Award in ROTC and the Century 111 Scholarship competition

Five other students were recognized three times during the program, They were Alan

Crawford, Betty Plain, Ann Wilcheck, Robin Shackiett and Phyllis Cauley

Crawford received the Mary Barrett Math Award, and shared the Mary Lou Mobberly Social Studies Award and the General Electric Outstanding Senior Science Award

Betty Plain received the award for having the highest grade point average in the class of '82, and for being one of three American Academy of Achievement finalists Music earned Ann Wicheck three awards. She received the Virginia D. Fitzgerald Band. Award, plus a $2,400 music scholarship to the University of Evansville and a $1,300 music scholarship to the University of South Carolina.

Robin Shacklett shared the Spirit in Action Scholarship Award, the R.P. Brown Student Council Award and a John N and Brownie Young Scholarship

Phyllis Cauley was given the Alice Hite Commerce Award as the outstanding business suddent and received the award as the outstanding student in business machines. She also received a $300 Owensboro Association of Educational Office Personnel Scholarship.

A number of students won two awards

The presentations were announced by Todo Anderson and Todd Burr, student Council president and vice president. Members of the Owensboro Board of Education, plus Superinten dent James C. Hilliard and Principal Bill VanWinkle, made the actual presentation to the students. At the beginning of the program, Superintendent James C. Hilliard spoke briefly calling the student body "a great bunch of students" As the benediction was given and the ceremony came to an end, you could see tears well in the eyes of many of the seniors as they realized that they would finally be leaving OHS

Kevin had two "B's" received in Algebra I and English II

Kevin explained one of the grades, "I justify my Algebra grade with freshman sitters."

Although she received no honors, Paige Peau was recognized for her 3 94 average

"These are the students who have been consistent and dedicated for a four-year period It's a real honor. It's tremendous. We're just real proud of them," said Dr Roy Woodward coordinator of counseling

"When I learned I was varedictorian, I fe t honored and kind of proud of myself. I knew my family would be happy," exclaimed Betty

Kevin felt. "My first feeling was reite! Twelve years is a long time to wait, even for something like this. I had figured my own GPA. but that was no help because I didn't know if I was number 1 or number /10"

Although it may seem all classes were a breeze to both students, each found they had a couple difficult classes

Betty acknowledged "Advanced Chem

After being seated sa . at an Kevin Bryant and valedictorian Bet, Far addressed the graduating class

Then the 12 year long wait was over as each OHS graduate was called to receive their diploma

An expression of satisfaction and accomposiment shown brightly on each graduates' face as they received their diploma from a member of the Board of Education

An excitement reigned over the entire class and crowd as the students changed their tassles which made them official graduates

Caps flew high in the air and cheers rang out Then the final walk began. Mixed emotions were seen on the faces of each graduate. Some looked proud, others seemed relieved and still others grieved as they walked out gate 5

Vickie Fenwick is State Pool Champ

I t's not a bad sport," commented OHS Senior Vickie Fenwick. "It is becoming a more competitive sport and I'm sure it will be even bigger in the near future."

The sport that Vickie referred to is procket bliards, known to most people as poo-

For almost three years, the 18-year-old has haunted poolrooms around Owensboro, in particular the Rack n' Cue on Triplett Street

"As a child around the age of six, I thought it was fun to roll the balls around on the table," reflected Vicure

"Now I play with my boy friend, my father and a lot of my friends," acided the dimpled bilhardist

In her short but promising pool career, Vickie has won three first-place trophies. Two were for the city and state tournament championships and the third was in a couples league

Vickie also won the girls

division of the City High School 8 Ball Tournament and the state

When asked what techniques she uses in preparing for her pool matches. Viciose replied that she usually plays every day preceding the date of the match for at least an hour

"On the night before the motch I get plenty of sleep," she continued. "I get up early, eat at least an hour before I go to the place where the match will be held and then I shoot around, practicing shots I have trouble with before the match."

Vickie stated that she is not much of a trick shooter, but "once in a while I pull off a few fancy shots," she said with a smile

One of Vicine's greatest likes about pool is the fact that "It's a game which men and women can possibly play equally because there are no physical handicaps."

-By LaMont Jones Jr.

State Pool Champ, Senior Vickie Fenwick won the State Pool Championality. Vickie has been a long-lime pool lover as she feels girls can compete on an equal basis to men in the sport.

Jock Talk

"I really enjoyed the tennis team this year. At first, along with being excited, I was nervous about the (winning) streak. I had no idea it would be talked up as much as it was. Everyone enjoys winning, but there always has to be a loser. When that time came for us this year, we pulled together and supported each other all the more. We were really close this year, it seemed like whenever you were down, somebody was there to cheer you on, even It if was the girl on the next court, looking over at you and saying 'Come On!'. I hated to see the streak be broken, but even though we all tried hard, in a way it was a relief

"The thing that really sticks in my mind about this year was when Mr. Poynter told me, the day before the regionals, to go home, go to bed early . . . and leave the guys alone!"

Second verse was a sad story of watching a city rival win the State Cross Country Championship. Karen's song had a happy ending in the final verse She won the State Championship

The "Karen" is Senior Karen Daniel and is the 1981 State AAA Cross Country Champion

After four years of turmos, she succeeded in her goal of winning the state title

As a Freshman, Karen could not beat Kathleen Beumal of Apollo, but looked very promising.

Karen went to state abain her Sophomore year and trished third, her second straight year behind Kathleen Beumel

Karen's "year" was supposed to be her Junior year with Ka heen not ease but as fate would have it Karen howe her took and watched city rival Lor Linville take the state crown. A state Championship would have to wait another year

Karen started the 1981 season slow due to an injury to her hip. "At first the girls were uncertain of what they could do," explained Head Coach James H He also went on to say that "the girls rigured out they had the potential and began to run like a team."

After an eighth place limish in the Covington Invitational, the team started to jell just when Karen got mer tirst win at home in over a year at the Owensboro nvitationa.

The Big Eight Meet at Yellow Creek Park was the real beginning of the year ending success story when the lady runners placed second and Karen had a 10:58 time to linish in first

In the KHSAA Regional, Karen finished first with her second sub-11 minute time of 10.57. The team finished

A surprising thing happened on the way to the regional championship game. Both of the favorites — OHS and Apollo were defeated.

OHS fell to Madisonville 5-4 to end the Red Devils' tournament hopes. Apollo was beaten by eventual regional champion Henderson County 8-2.

The surprising less to Madisonville ended Owensboro's season at 23-12 Two errors contributed to a three-run fifth inning that helped Madisonville win the game

Billy Smith, who had pitched the district championship win over Apollo, was tagged with the loss

In the first game of the regional tournament, OHS squezed by Webster County 2-1. Randy Henderson walked away with the win

In the district championship game the pitching of Smith and the home run hitting of David Johnson and Brent Cates played a major role in the title victory

Johnson's two run homer in the bottom of the fifth broke a scoreless ball game. Later in the game, Cates hit a grand slam to finish the scoring for OHS

In the district opener, OHS posted a 9-3 win over Daviess County

It was strong pitching by Frankse Hayden and superb delensive play by Robbie Webb and Glendell Miller that helped OHS to the win OHS batted in five of the Red Devila' nine runs

While the Red Devils had hopes of making it back to the state tournament. Coach Gene Van Hoose said "I'm tremendously happy with the year. We have nothing to be ashamed about, nothing to be sorry about."

Boys track placed fifth in State with top honor in 200-meter dash by

ompetition, in its stiffest, most selective form, is what two members of the OHS boys track team encountered at the Boys State Track Meel

A long season's journey for Dezi Douglas and Tim Martin concluded with the traditional trip to the state meet at Lexington on May 22 and the top competition in the state

Douglas, a fleet-footed, record breaking junior who combines natural ability with a cool intellect, boosted OHS to lifth-place in the state by capturing top honors in the 200-meter dash and a close third in the 100-meter race.

Even though a serious gash in his tight foot hindered the performance of seasoned veteran. Tim Martin, he samed a fifth-place in the 3,200-meter run and second-place in the 1,600 meter run at state.

OHS finished fifth with 19 points to the with Lexington Tates Creek. Bryan Station of Lexington won the championship trophy with 31 points Besides Douglas and Martin, OHS had only one other entry in the state meet. The 800 relay team was fourth but three seconds off the pace set by the winning Bryan Station team.

Douglas had a time of 21.9 in the 200-meters and was third at 10.98 in the 100-meters

Martin was second in the 3200 meters, just three seconds off the pace set by Mark Berry of Manual, the opponent that beat Martin in cross country competition. Martin was three seconds back of Berry in the 1600 meters, but in fifth spot in the crowded field.

Douglas, Martin and the 880-relay team were the only OHS survivors in the sectional competition at Daviess County on May 14-15

At the AAA Regional Meet on May 8, Douglas led the Red Devils along the road to victory

It came as no surprise when he won the 100 and 200-meter sprints in record times and teamed up with Walter Shemwell, Glenn Tapp and Mark McFarland to whip the competition in the 880-relay

Mark Higgs made a spectacular showing by leaping an inch over 22 feet to win the long-jump competition

In the Big Eight Meet, long hours of training paid off with a second-place ranking for OHS

Although Henderson County won the contest, Douglas and Martin received their share of the spotlight, too Douglas darted to first-place in the 100 and 200-meter races and Martin found two firsts in the 1.500 and 5.000-meter races.

It was the same story at the Murray State Invitational Meet on April 24

Even though no official score was kept, Douglas won his usual 100-meter dash in a sizzling 106 seconds for a meet record and zipped to a first in the 200-meter speed contest

An anchorman for the 400 and 800-meter relay teams, Douglas keyed Higgs, McFartand and Tapp in another win in the 400-meter

Another main event of the '82 season was when the Red Devils ran over Davies County to grasp the City/County championship by a margin of 14 points

Leading the attack on the other teams were Douglas, who took the 100 and 200-meter with no trouble, and Martin, who secured first-places in the 800 and 1,600-meter runs

Kevin Swanagan, after running in the shadow of Martin for years, at last won the 3,200-meter run in an upset over

Douglas was honored as the "most outstanding" performer in the Henderson County Invitational with the much-coveted Wade Harper Award. He won firsts in the 100 and 200-meter dashes and Martin placed first in the 1,600 and 3,200-meter trips

In summarizing the track season, it was the running of Douglas and Martin, plus the wins along the way by the supporting cost that made winners of Don Crask's Red Devis

"Overall I think the boys track team had a great year and will probably be out standing for years to come due to the fact that we now have people starting out younger. I also feel that Coach Don Crask and Coach Joe Conway did a great job They were always around when we needed help or support and that is what I remember most."

Guardian angel deserted Red Devils, leaving them with a "see-saw" season and ## a 6-5 record

Giving up the district championship, sharing the city title and nearly forfeiting their much coveted "bragging rights" were just a few reasons for the Red Devils to beseve their "guardian angel" had deserted them in 1981

The Red Devils finished the bittersweet season with a 6-5 record, the first time since 1976 the wins were so close to losses

After beating Evansville Central 29-7 in the season opener, a severe moral defeat was in store as arch rival Owensboro Catholic nipped the Red Devils 13-12 in a last second thriller. This marked the first time since 1978 the Aces emerged victorious over the Red Devils. Tears of frustration flowed in the locker.

room after the bitter defeat

Another piece of history was added to the varsity footbail files as the Red Devils traveled to Paducah and stilled the winds of the Tilghman Blue Tornado. The easy 24-0 win came as a surprise because Paducah was the only team to defeat the Red Devils last year

After the easy victory over Paducah, OHS was sitting on top of the world until a squad of marcon and white clad footballers from Madisonville came along. The Marcons bested the Red Devils 20-16 for their first victory over the Devils since 1976

A 33-14 win over Union County continued the Red Devil's "see-saw' season

Next came Henderson County The Colonels, who went into the game with a spotless 6-0 record, were determined not to let the Devils defeat them. Their strong offense and commendable defense were the two reasons for the 54-31 victory over OHS

The autumn leaves began to fal and things quickly went from bad to worse. The Red Devils were truly black and red after a 35-11 loss to Shelby County

A sweet slice of victory came in the 34-7 win over city-rival Daviess County The success was short lived as Tell City provided yet another defeat for the Red Devils as they hustled to a 42.35 victory

It was the night before Halloween when a suspicious looking flock of Eagles roosted at Reid Stadium. The Red Devils plucked their feathers 21-14

Now the record was an even 5-5. The Red Devils were at their last game, a rematch with arch-city for Ownesboro Catholic Did the Red Devils have the will or the way to defeat them?

After the game, the Red Devils were in the locker room, tired but happy from their 28-18 win and a winning season at 6-5

The season was the worst in Don Netoskie's stint as head football coach but still left him with a 41-15 five year coaching record

This is how Head Coach Don Netoskie summed up his feelings about two of the hottest Red Deviground gamers to dominate the varsity football scene Running back Giendeil Miller, a three-year football extraordinaire, shared the abundant OHS limelight with another upcoming star — Mark Higgs Higgs, a 5'8" sophomore, took top rushing honors. His fleet feet were an invaluable asset in helping him achieve a 96 rushing average 1,407 yards in 146 carries. Higgs also placed second in scoring with 88 points

Despite missing the first two games of the season, the incomparable Miller was second in rushing first in points scored and named to the All Big Eight Conference team Miller trucked a hefty 1,019 yards on 126 carnes during his nine-game season and averaged 81 yards a carry. He scored 99 points via touchdowns, conversions and field goals and was named "offensive running back" and "defensive outside linebacker" on the Big Eight team.

The eye-openers don't stop there for Miler. He rushed for over 1,500 yards in his three varsity years and scored 210 points. He also set a record for the longest punt return in 1980. He returned a punt 95 yards in a game against Union County to revise the 90 yard record set by Ted Smith. (now chairman of the Owensboro Board of Education) in 1954.

Senior Barry Best ranked third in rushing with 288 yards on 54 carries. Best was another player named to the Big Eight team as "defensive end." Accounting for 10 of the team's 16 passes may have been a chief reason Mark McFarland was named to the Big Eight team

McFarland was chosen as a "defen sive back" along with Billy Smith, who was named, "offensive guard" to complete the OHS representation Quarterback Brad Loucks, substituting for injured Larry Vanover, completed 42 of his 81 passes for 512 yards. Loucks also had five touchdown passes and five interceptions. Vanover broke his hand early in the season.

During the 11-game season, OHS scored 274 points, 51 points above ast year and allowed the competition 223 points

Girls win three invitationals, finish third in State as Karen Daniel is a

Winner again

rophies, titles and tears were truly a part of the season for the 1982 girls track team

The Lady Devils came in third with nine points at the State Track meet on May 22

All nine points were accounted for by Senior Karen Daniel, the only OHS representative at the meet

She broke the white tape in the 3 200 meter race in 11 30 36, 22 seconds faster than the second place finisher. Karen was third in the 1,600 meters after developing what she called "coment lags."

The 3,200-meter run was adopt ed just this year and has proven to be Daniel's strongest event

At the AAA Sectional Meet just a week before. Daniel ran off with the 3,200-meter and was second in the 1,600 meters

The OHS girls finished second in the regional after capturing first in three meets during the year

Coach Jim Hill's girls won the Henderson County Invitational, the Daviess County Invitational and the Big Eight meet

The key performance for the girls, besides the automatic wins from Daniel, were Mele Andrews in the discus and Shawn Higgs in the dashes - 100 and 200 - plus the relay combination of Higgs, Donna McHenry, Shawna Moorman and Velina Douglas

Daniel waltzed to wine in the 1,600 and 3 200 meters in the regional. Mele Andrews won first place in the discus and the 880 relay took top honors in the regionals

One of the highlights of the season was a one-on-one showdown with Henderson County in the Big Eight meet OHS won 58-55, but it was only after a re-run was held in the 800-meter relay. A protest by Henderson County over the starting mark caused officials to bring the two relays team back on the track for a showdown, OHS beat Henderson County 1:49 37 to 1 49 78 as the combination of McHanry, Higgs, Moorman and Douglas captured the

Sometimes luck shines on the excuse maker and the excuse may be accepted, but some students don't have such good fortune

Being plentiful to most students, excuses show a little imagination and some persuasion

Students understand that "My dog ate my homework" is outdated and "My baby sister ate it up" is unrealistic.

College confusion shared by many seniors

Jes of coilege literature arriving in the mail each week, college entrance exams, and the high cost of college were some of the decisions that meant confusion for many OHS Seniora

Being away from home was a long cherished dream of many but the responsibility was frightening to other students

Learning to budget their money, and knowing when it's time to buckle down and study are just a few responsibilities that worsted the Seniors as they prepared to face college

First came the dreaded entrance exams. According to Dr. Roy Woodward, Senior Guidance Counselor, "There are two types of entrance exams, the American College Test (ACT) and Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). With the SAT some colleges require you to take some of the achievement test that are part of the SAT. Some colleges will accept you with either the SAT or the ACT, it just depends what they are interested in," explained Dr. Woodward

Another factor which leads to the endless confusion of college decisions is the expense

"Most of the schools are trying to keep up with inflation, they are adding an 8 to 10 percent increase in tuition, especially the private schools," said Dr. Woodward

"All colleges are different, but the cost of attending out-of-state colleges is always more expensive than attending in-state colleges. The two-year community colleges are cheaper than the four-year, and the private colleges are more expensive than the public colleges," stated Dr Woodward

Besides tuition there will also be extra expenses that you will be paying once you get to college such as books. a meal ticket and dorm fees

Paying for college is a family affair It's the second largest expenditure that the typical family makes. Only buying a house costs more. Some families will big leap into the real world need financial aid help in order for their children to attend college

According to an article in "Alman ac" by Robert Leider: "Uncle Sam is pulling a reverse. After four years of loosening the purse strings for student aid, he is now drawing them tight. Interest rates on Federal quaranteed loans have been increased and eligibility for government grants and loans has been tightened

"Take heart, though for amid the gray there is some sunshine But you will have to look harder for it than did the class of '81 or the class of '80. You will have to be more persistent, more imaginative, more innovative, and more open-minded about options. You'll have to know more about financial aid - what it is. where to find it, and how to qualify for a full share

Another problem which increases the stress that Sentors bear during their final year of high school is taking the Experiencing what this vicious world

Your parents won't be there to catch you when you fall, or to comfort you when you've had a bad day You'li just have to get up, brush yourself off, and keep on going

There won't be anyone to tell you when to get your homework done, or what time you should come in on weekends

Sure, there's nothing wrong with having a little fun, going to a few parties, or attending the sports events but you have to keep in mind the real reason your in college - to get an education

"It takes discipline and willpower. and that's what growing up is all about Accepting the responsibilities of an adult, and making an effort to put forth the best you can to make your college experience worthwhile," said Dr Woodward

Senior Larry Aaron commented,

"It'll be your first time away from home for a long period of time. Then you'll realize it's either hit the books or get thrown out of school,"

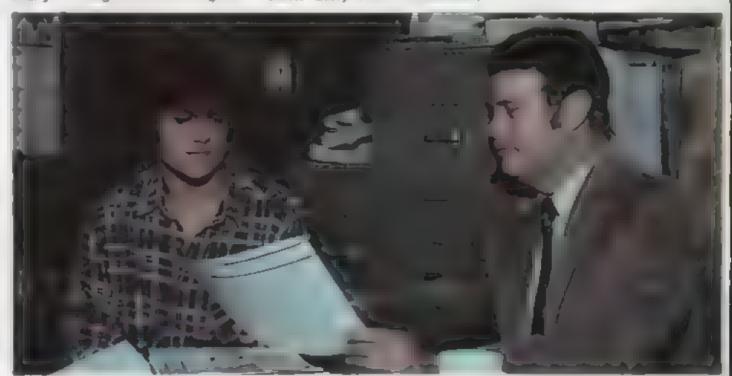

It's expensive, but it can be worth it. It's for whoever wants it, but college is not for everyone. It's for you if that's what you pop your cookles on," said Senior Jimmy Goff

"I think it will be a lot of hard work and it will take a lot of responsibility." commented Senior Todd Burr

"I'm ready to leave home, and get out on my own. It'll be something different. Your parents won't be there to tell you what to do, and if you make bad decisions, you'll learn from your mistakes," stated Sensor Jillene Mays

Whether it's accepting the responsibility of being on your own, partying, or trying to get an education, most Seniors agreed that they were really looking forward to college, but with a few reservations

- By Danette Jackson

Decisions, decisions, Consulting with Senior Joe Barlow about the college of his choice is Guidance Coordinator Dr Roy

Woodward. Many Seniors were puzzled about which college to attend, but found that in-state colleges were the best choice because of the rising costs of tuitions. Dr Woodward worked with Seniors in selecting a college and in the testing program

Memory board. Memorable events of high school fill the bulletin board of Senior Ann Lasweii

Mickey Mouse, ticket stubs part of the pinned-up past

To a grade schooler going into high school means almost as much to them as graduating means to a Senior "I think it will be fun. I can't wait until I get to high school," say the children in grade school. Yet others think of high school as "Too confusing" They like the security of one classroom with one teacher

As a student enters high school, many childish ways are left behind as memories of the past. However they may still sneak a look at the cartoons on Saturday morning or put on Mickey Mouse or Donald Duck shirts as the "lod at heart" emerges. Some students carry Snoopy pencils and folders or any other "Peanuts" character

Memories of high school become favorites and many students have a collection of memorabilia to remind them of each year in high school

At home, girl's bedrooms are filled with stuffed animals and the remains of their favorite doll now 16 years older

Pinned on the bulletin boards are such memories as the first flower; a bundle of tickets to dances; the napkin that was at the table of the restaurant before Prom; the "Happening Gram" that congratulated those who won honors; and the construction paper star that hung from the ceiling in the cafeteria

"I like to save things from my high school years. I already have three scrapbooks full and my bulietin board stays filled," stated Senior Lorie Flayden.

High schoolers are not the only group that keep a collection of memorabilia. The items may change, but many adults keep the noteworthy things in their collection of memoirs

Anderson lost wand in 'Wizard' arcade

n July, 1981, Senior Todd Anderson was a new Owensboro businessman.

Four months later (October), Todd was an ex businessman

Todd opened the "Swiss Wizard Arcade" in July but four months later, vandals had forced him to close

"I started the arcade because I noticed that kids were always around the Plaza and had nothing to do and most kids like pinball and video games."

What Anderson didn't realize was that while the kids played inside others were outside vandalizing the building

It took up most of my time trying to keep the bailding in shape but the kilds last kept on vandalizing it," replied Todd

Tood, who hopes to major in business in college called the four month stint as a businessman a "learning experience and hopefully useful in the future."

Senior Strut. "Cruising" to class, signifying seniors from underclassmen, are Seniors Sylann Barlow, Betty Plain, Whitney Nall, Jon Price and Jeff Hal.

Privileges accompany Seniors; later curfews, shorter loads

From the beginning of high school students anx ousle await their senior year. The idea of being a "Senior" seems to hold many new privileges for most students.

Such privileges range from later curfews at home to shortened class loads at school

"It's a real advantage only having four classes. You have less homework and more time to do it," commented Senior Billy Grady, who is one of the many Seniors on work study and attends only one-half a day

Another privilege that accompanies the senior year is that feeling of "supremacy" one acquires from being the oldest member of the student body. Seniors were granted the privilege of guiding the lost sophomores to class on the first day of school.

"I can remember when we'd get lost the first day of school and the seniors would laugh at us. Now it's our turn to laugh," stated Senior Stacey Wathen

Senior Derak Cobb tells the difference between the senior and the underclassman by saying: "Seniors have class! We don't run from class to class... we cruise. If a problem arises we just laugh it off, instead of worrying about it We also have a right to be conceited. We've been here for four years."

When the school year comes to an end the seniors are honored by having the opportunity to finish their last days of high school ahead of the underclassmen. Finally, the last privilege is presented when school draws to a close with the long-awaited graduation ceremonies.

Hina: A family of 'genetic athletes'

ave you ever heard of "genetic athletes?" They are thletes whose athletic ability runs in he family

Seniors Fred and Lori Hina are genetic athletes" even though their amily name isn't familiar to OHS fans.

Fred, who started at defensive tackle on the varsity, has played football since he was eight. His father, Fred Hina St., also played high school and college football. The father attended Sturgis, now Union County, and played as a sophomore and a junior at Murray State.

Fred's younger sister, Amy Hina, is interested in sports and played reshman basketball at Owensboro

Junior High

Lori Hina, Fred's cousin, was captain of the varsity cheerleading squad and a cheerleader since the tender age of eight Lori's lather, Charles Hina, and Fred's father are

Charles Hina was an offensive and detensive tack e for three years at

"I was a middle guard all four years at Murray State," added Charles

Char es and Fred have five brothers who played at Sturgis. They are Roy, Henry, Bill, Harry and Johnny H.na The tast three played college ball at Murray and Roy and Henry started for Western

"I played against some of the Hina's in both high school and college ball said assistant principal Gerald Poynter "They were all very tough athletes and they played for Sturgis at a time when they had very good football teams "

Four Hins brothers — Fred, Roy Henry and Bill have coached

Fred coached Pop Warner, the Owensboro - Daviess County Youth Football League for two years

ost American techniques and a respect from drugs and alcohol use. The moral standards here are not very high," commented Florence Morano, an OHS student who is originally from El Salvador

"The customs are different in El Salvador The people are more strict about moral life, the food is spicer and the weather is neither hot or cold

"The only thing that the United States and El Salvador have in common is the dress."

"The clothes you wear in summer are the ones that we wear all year long," explained the OHS Senior in her distinctive speech that still has a strong Spanish accent

Florence came to America because her mother and most of her family live here. She likes the country itself, which she feels has a singular beauty. She also likes the food and some of the customs.

In America she has been to Washington, D. C., Virginia and Maryland. She likes Owensboro better than any city because of the friendly people "In the beginning I did not want to come here, but now I am glad I did. Now I have the opportunity to live in a different culture with a different language. The experience will help me in the future," concluded Florence

Double vision: ten twins

girls. Well, whatever the combination, its twins

There are five sets of twins in the 1981 graduation class. They are: Keith and Kevin Swanagan, Monzita and Talita Johnson, Lisa and Laura Dill, Mike and Paula Crump and Roger and Rosemary Mason. There are three sets of identica. twins and two sets of paternal twins. A striking coincidence is that the Masons and Crumps were born on the same day, Nov 20, 1963, and in the same hospital

When asked if they got more attention from the public because they are twins, Rosemary Mason stated, "Yes, because want to see the twins and how much they we twins aren't very common and people grown. The best thing is that you are always love to see 'the twins' "

dress atike," said Monzita Johnson

When asked what was the best and

I's a boy, and a girl, no, walt, it's two worst things about being a twin the comments were, "The worst thing is that we are so close. We are like one person instead of two, and when the time comes to separate, it will be hard for the both of us," stated Talita Johnson

"The best thing about being a twin is that you will always have someone to talk to no matter what it's about," commented Lisa Did

Paula Crump said, "The best thing about being a twin is that Mike will always take up for me when someone is bothering

"The worst thing is people always different from other kids in a special kind "Besides being identical twins we also of way," concluded Rosemary Mason.

Kalt Practicing one of the many forms of blocks and punches is Junior Joe Hunter, who has a blue belt in Tae Kwon Do

Joe Hunter gets a kick out of Tae Kwon Do

A nold Japanese proverb reads: "Even a raindrop can break a stone" Jumor Joe Hunter is not a raindrop, but he can certainly break a stone, a brick that is, or a board

Joe is a practitioner of the ancient Korean art of Tae Kwon Do with the rank of blue belt

He has studied for three years under Sensei Roy Chai, founder/owner of Chai's Karate School in Owenshore

Tae Kwon Do is noted for its high and flashy kicks and its lightning quick punches, it was founded over 5,000 years ago in China as Kung Fu. Practiced for many years as a form of exercise by monks, it later found its way to Korea where it was modified to become Tae Kwon Do

A recent issue of "Black Beit" magazine (September '81) stated that Tae Kwon Do is the most popular form of the martial arts in the US today

Joe became interested in the martial arts after studying Bruce Lee, probably the best known martial artist to ever live

Joe, like many other martial artists, still follows the teachings of Bruce Lee

To earn the ranking of black belt, in the art of Tae Kwon Do, you must be in good condition, both physically and mentally. You must also learn to use several weapons such as the nuchakus, the tonfa, the sal and the bo (or staff) Joe has learned the use of a few of these, but he says that he is by no means a master

Learning any one of the martial arts takes many long hours of hard practice. Joe says he trains for about two or three hours a day

Joe practices for both exercise and self-defense, but every now and then he'll smile and say, "I guess I practice Tae Kwon Do for the kicks"

Richard White in step with the latest funk

P op Lock, Punk out, Wave, Boogaloo, Gigoloo and Baseball

These are the names of some of the popular dances done by Junior Richard White Richard, or "Doonie" as his friends call him, is a jack of all dances master. Richard doesn't dance in contests or for money — he "just volunteers."

"I've been dancing for about a year and a half," Richard said, "I was encouraged a lot by Pat Hogg, a helper at the H. L. Nebiett Community Center"

Soul and a new type of music called "computer rock" are what Richard dances to best. He has had the opportunity to dance at the Executive Inn on several occasions

"I've danced with a partner named Wee Wee Smith," he added. Wee Wee is the younger sister of OHS graduate Alitta Smith

"When I dance, I have to be serious, yet fully relaxed to fulfill the gifted skill expected of me," concluded Richard

Her deadline was 12 midnight kept Bruce in her car at all times

The next day Dana noticed he was the ransom money to the cemetery missing and she got really angry. She thought to herself, "Who would want to take my Bruce Feldpausch and Allen Mayfield stuffed monkey?"

Three restless days passed and she didn't have a clue as to where Bruce could be. Then at 5:30 a.m. on Saturday morning as Dana was getting in her car to go to work, she found a ransom note which was a piece of paper with words cut out from a magazine and pasted on the paper. The message read, "We have your monkey We demand $399.88 in cash in unmarked tens and twenties"

Dana took the note to work with her and showed it to a state policeman who is a friend of hers. The postceman laughed and told Dana it was probably just someone she knew playing a joke on her

Sunday morning she found another the first one. This note gave her directions as to where to take the ransom money. She was told to leave it behind a tombstone in a cemetery located on Deserted Creek Road in

T wo OHS students — Junior Wing Cho Ng and his brother, Sophomore Wing Ben Ng — are the only students attending OHS who are Chinese

The Ng's lived in China until 1978. They moved to Cincinnati, Ohio, for 132 years. They have been in Owensboro since the fall.

We came to Owensboro because our father owns a restaurant here," said Wing Cho. Wing and Ben both work in their father's restaurant

When asked if they would rather be here in Owensboro or China, they both replied, "I think I would rather be here

Both students said they had a hard time communicating with others

The Ng's are the only Asian students that attended OHS, although two Vietnamese students enrolled at the beginning of the year

Besides the four Asian students and one Hispanic student (Florence Moreno), the OHS student body had 163 blacks and 977 whites for a total of 1,145 students

Shanna Bibbs in step: moonwalk, boogaloo

Shanna Bibbs is her name and grooving to her game.

She can dazzle the crowds with her hypnotic movements. She can boogaloo, moonwalk, you name II, she does it. Every dance is her dance

The OHS sophomore has been dancing "since I've been old enough to know what dancing was all about," Shanna said with a smile

"I do all the dances that are out right now," Shanna added, "but there are no new dances I know of at this time."

Shanna usually dances to soul music and occasionally a "bad number" by a Japanese group Many of her dances require absolute concentration

The Executive Inn has played bost to Shanna and a California partner, together comprising the "Boogaloo Connection"

We danced together during the 1980 Black Expo. I also dance when I go to dances, a lot at home, and sometimes with friends at games," continued Shanna, "I've also danced in variety shows and dance contests."

Aside from natural ability, Shanna's great dancing is attributed two other factors

"I really think watching television and watching other people dance encouraged me a lot," Shanna concluded

Helping hands often go unnoticed

t's just about lunchtime and you begin to feel like your stomach is urning upside down. You've got to to home. So you head to the office to check out. The first thing you see s a mass of students at the receptionist's desk

From within the crowd you hear, "Next?" Finally your turn comes and the crowd parts, revealing the smiling ace of Mickie Danie.

Micke is one of the many 'classified" employees that help to make OHS operate each day. Her vain job is front office receptionist She handles all incoming calls and thecks students in and out

"I really enjoy my job because I ke to keep busy and I get to know the students on a one-to-one basis," said Mickie. They're usually really rice and patient with me

Another one of the "behind the scenes" people is Nancy Purdy She is Principal Bill Vanwinkle's personal secretary. She began as the receptionist 20 years ago, the job currently held by Mrs. Daniel the monthly attendance records. She said that she enjoys her job because "it's different from day-to-day "

Other areas have their own

In the Guidance office, there is Mrs. Peggy Head, whose job is to assist the guidance counselors in any way she can

In the library, Mrs. Nancy Troutman helps to keep things running smoothly by keeping library records and processing new books

Who handles the money at OHS? Bookkeeper Peggy Duckworth handles approximately $234,000 00 a year She is in charge of all funds coming in and going out at OHS

To get the students to school there are nine bus drivers that bring students to OHS each day

One group of classified personner that are seen less frequently are the custodians, commonly called janitors Whether they are custodians or janitors, they are certainly a big part of OHS. They keep the bathrooms stocked with paper-towels and toilet Mrs Purdy does typing and keeps paper, they keep the halls painted and clean and other maintenance work around the school

In the words of their foreman Ronnie Cox, "We do general clean up and light maintenance." Ronnie says that he enjoys his job because of the co-operation he gets from the faculty and the students

The best-known classified personnel would be the Lunchroom workers They are headed by Eloise Weider man Mrs. Weiderman is in charge of the planning and preparation of the school lunches

The lunchroom personnel serve between 975 and 1,158 students a day, which amounts to approximately 258,375 meals a year "This number is up from last year because of the addition of the tenth grade," explained Mrs. Weiderman.

Whether it is the janitors or the secretaries, the lunchroom personnel or the bus drivers, OHS functions because of the work of the 37 "classified" employees

Although the "preppy" look still remained popular, students turned to a less expensive form of fashion the casual look

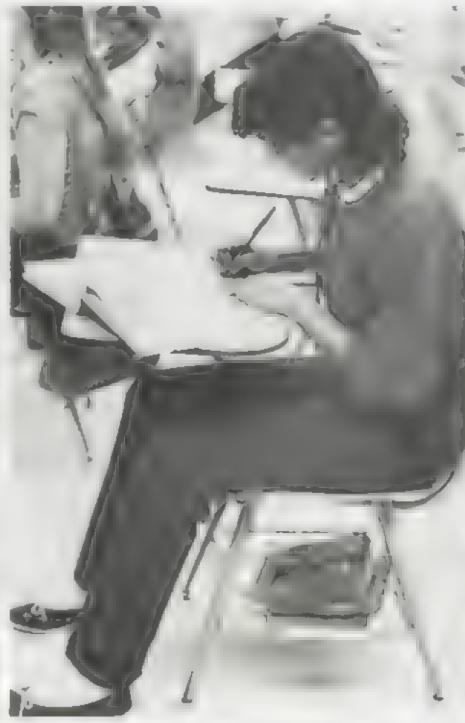

Sweaters that were worn in the 50's returned and Items such as army pants, surgeon smocks and sweat shirts all helped the shriveling pocketbook as they could be found at loss expensive prices

However, high prices didn't hamper too many students. Designer eans, no matter what the price, were a must as they were accompanied by tweed blazers and topsiders. Polo and Izod shirts were also a few of the higher priced fashions

Blazers were again big. However, the blazer had a different look for it was cut closely below the waist Tweed valvet, wool and cordurey dominated the textures

Whether it was kill, plaid, pleated or cordurpy, ekirte made a comeback Worn with knee socks and loalers you had created the "preppy" look But, topped with cowboy boots one obtained the fastest growing fashion the western look. The traditional jeans or jean skirt was matched not

LILLE Students faced many problems trying to get to school

he way students got to school differed greatly in 1981-1982 They came by bus, bike, foot, and drove their own car or the family car

A though 338 students "off cally" rode nine city school buses, and many students walked, it doesn't mean they didn't want to drive their own car

The real status symbol for students was having your own car and the lancier the better

A lot of students talked about the cars they would love to have such as Trans Ams. Camaros and all kinds of sport cars. Some students, such as Seniors Holly Nall and Raiph Shope drove elaborate cars

Holly had a sleek charcoal gray Mazda Rx7 she drove to school unti-It was totaled in a wreck and Shope had a Camaro Z 28

Another lancy car, a Porsche 914 owned by Senior Sarah Ryan, caught on lire on Aug. 18 and she watched her dream car go up in smoke

Although a lot of students dreamed of having nice cars, they usually got stuck with the parents old car, or the high achooler's first car - "the Janker " they had to hold their breath and say wheels was a status symbol for students. Mazda as Senjor Regina Moredock a couple of prayers to make II through the parking lot

Many students thought they were and starting was the major trouble with them

"Bumming" a ride to school with going to be able to drive their car to another student was the method of school, yet when they tried to start transportation of many students as the car, it wouldn't start. Many the best friend" provided "wheels students had problems with their cars or the next door neighbor let you ride

Some student care were so bad Fancy wheels. Getting to school in fancy. Senior Hollo Nall climbs into her new "burns" a ride

One real unusual way of getting to and from school was by riding a moped Sophomore Gordon Ware rides his moped during the spring. He said. "the reason is because I have football practice after school and I don't want to have to walk home "

Parking continued to be a problem for students and Student Council efforts to get extra parking spaces on the north side of the building next to Longfe low failed as the Board of Education tabled the matter in the fall and epringtime, many students walked or rode bikus to

Teacher Bill Roach was the most consistant bike rider as he rode his bike to and from school, except in the extremely bad weather

Sophomore Renee Romans ex plained that "The reason I walk is I don't like for my Mom to have to get my little brother out "

Many other students had similar comments about getting back and forth to school and the problems it caused their parents

Work study keeps students busy financially and physically

66 C tudents are becoming more and more concerned with the value of money and how they spend it because they are earning it said Joe Iracane, OHS Work study program director

The issue is: are jobs good for students while they are still in high

Iracane expresses his opinion of students working. "They are in troduced to a totally new environment. They have a chance of dealing with people of all ages and situations of all kinds "

A new national study would contradict the value of students working while in high school

There are 93 students in the work study program at OHS in 1982 which is about the same number as last year

Work study allows students to leave school early in order to go to

"Most of the students average around 24 hours a week and the highest paying job is $6 00 an hour." said Mr. Iracane

When Mr Iracane was asked to comment on whether or not working hurt their school grades, he said, pizza pitcher. Students learn how to make their pennies earn the most for their money

V ore and more high school students are opening checking and savings accounts. The main reasons are known as the "three C's" - college, car and clothes

Some of the other reasons are marriage, homes and the future

'When something comes up in the future that I want to buy, by saving I know I'll have the money explained Junior Barbra Long

Besides savings accounts, there are a number of other accounts that students have. One of these are trust funds. That is an account set up in your name by someone else. The catch is that you cannot withdraw or use the money until you are a certain

Another is the ever popular checking account. Many students like to iteep the main part of their earnings in the bank, but still have the use of the money. For these students checking accounts are

However, if you do not have two forms of identification, it is rather difficult to give a check. Another problem with a checking account is the monthly service charge, which many students overlook

A service charge is an amount charged by the bank for the handing of your money Service charges can range from $3.50 to $5.00 a month and are often the cause for over withdrawals, as Senior Chris Pischer will quickly tell you

'I had a checking account once, for about two months, but I d in't subtract the service charge and I overdrew "

Another type of account which is avaliable to students is the "NOW" accounts. The NOW accounts are interest-bearing checking accounts These, however, are not popular with students because of their high service charge and the fact that you have to keep a minimum balance And with a interest percentage of 54 percent, the service charge can often be more than the interest earned

A popular savings account was the "Money Market Fund," which had a higher interest rate, but usually required a larger amount of money and in some cases carried a charge for each check

Most students that had a large amount of money put it in accounts at savings and loan associations, which carried a tax-free incentive in 1982 for up to $1,000 of interest

Businesses advertising in the 1920 vearbooks are still to yearbooks are still advertising today

any students complain every year about the number of acis in the Owensboroan. They don't realize that the section devoted to ads finance a great portion of the yearbook and prevents them from having to pay the full cost of the book

Ads could also be classified as part of the tradition for which OHS students are so proud

Owensboro businesses that were advertising in the yearbooks of the 1980's were also advertising in the yearbooks of the 1920's

One ad that hasn't changed much in the 60-plus year is J C. Rudd Son. and Co. The ad in 1925 was almost identical to the ad that appears on page 214 of the 1982 yearbook Only the phone number and the addition of a post office box have been changed in the years for the insurance ad-

J C Penney Co., had an ad in the yearbook, but had a downtown location instead of the present site in Towne Square Mail

Tapscott Florist, which is now Tapscott Wholesale Florist, had ads in both the early books and in today's yearbook

In 1920 Red Spot Paints ran an ad in the Owensboroan as the "Owensboro Paint and Glass Company " In 1980 they ran another ad, this time adding wallpaper to their line and offering a 10 percent student discount on art supplies

S W Anderson Company was also an early advertises in the Owensbor can. They ran ads in 1920 and 1921. Sixty plus years later they also featured ads in the OHS vearbooks

In 1921 a real estate company called J.R. Laswell and Sons ran a small ad in 1981. The same company ran a much larger ad only this time as Laswell Gallery of Homes

The fact that people look at yearbooks year-after-year and the permanance of yearbooks fails on deaf ears when talking with business men faced with paying all of the buils

While you hear a lot of "reasons" why a business can't advertise many other businesses are quick to support the OHS publication and it is only a matter of calling on the business to review the ad or pick up new copy

Six OHS students - Regina Moredock, Vickie Lowe, Stacy Husk, Chris Fantini, Jil Hagerman and David Baker - heard the responses from the businessmen in 1981-82 as they sold 35 pages of

Former 'Miss Kentucky' retires from OHS; Taught 21 years

Retiring teacher. After 21 years as a teacher in the Owensboro Public Schools, Mary Perkins retired at the end of the 1981-82 school year While in college, she reigned as the "Miss Kentucky" of 1940 She represented Western Kentucky University in the event at Ashville N. C.

A former "Miss Kentucky of 1940" and a teacher in the Owensboro Public School System for 21 years retired at the end of the 1981-82 academic year

Many Elizabeth (Puryear) Perkins reigned as Miss Kentucky in the Rhodedendron Festival annually held in Asheville, N.C. after being selected as Western Kentucky University's choice for a representative. The only requirement competitors had was their ancestors had to have lived in the state for 100 years

Mrs. Perkins commented, "People in Asheville chose the representatives from the different states by pictures of them that were sent in by the president of the university that they attended." At the time she was a sophomore at Western

Teas, luncheons, balls and a parade were among the festivities of the pageant. In the parade, each girls had a float of her own tepresenting her state flowers' color and her dress was the same color. Each contestant wore a tailored dress that was exclusively for them.

While contestants were honored, their chaperones (their mothers) were also honored and entertained with teas and special get-togethers

Mrs. Perkins taught at OHS during the past year after being at the 9-10 Center and Southern Middle School and Junior High most of her teaching career

Construction of the $78,343 elevator was in the building. started December and was completed in June students attending OHS to take courses on the room second and third floor

Senior Mike Postlethwait commented "I think the elevator is a neat idea. It will be a help to me and others too."

Agnes Vanover is the other handicapped student that will be able to use the elevator

Principal Bill VanWinkle expisined that the physically handicapped "deserve a meaningful and good education just like any other student "

Several changes took place for the installation of the elevator Claserooms in Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, which the elevator will be located had to The classes were moved to other locations

The elevator is located in a closet in The elevator will enable handicapped the corner of math teacher Mitchell Roberts'

The elevator isn't for the use of any OHS has two physically handicapped student. It's only usable by handicapped students or administrative personnel. A key is required to operate the elevator

> One big problem with the construction and ultimately the cost of the elevator was the fact it would have to stop at five levels While a three-story building, the wing off the main structure caused two additional level stops for the elevator

> Hartz Brothers were the contractors installing the elevator

Airight! The basketball team's year ended in happiness with basketball provided many of the highlights for the school a season record of 28 5. Junior Chuckie Taylor exhibits his year feelings of happiness after one of the team's big wins. The

OHS had good, bad; firebug, drug bust; won spirit contest

6 6 The Same ... But Different" was a paradox that applied to 1982. It was the same school, but the happenings were different instead of the usual success stories, it was a school firebug, an illegal semor skip day and drug searches that caused most of the "hall" talk

The firebug set fires in the bathroom and lockers during lunchtime and students were forced to go directly to their lunch period in an effort to thwart the arsonist

Senior skip day found 238 of the 375 seniors taking part in the illegal holiday

Many parents could be seen at school early the next morning as students faced the consequences of suspension

School officials searched numerous students, lockers and cars for drugs in an effort to curb drug use at school

Not all news was bad news

Students spent hours writing spirit letters for the WVJS Spirit Contest OHS was the winner with 400,000 letters in the city-county competition

Boys basketball provided some memorable moments as anxious fans cheered the Devils on in a double overtime victory in the Third Region

Another trip to the State Tour nament at Lexington and beating Boyd County in the first round of the state meet at Rupp Arena will be cherished memories for OHS supporters. But like the "different" school year, the basketball season ended the next night against eventual state champion Laurel County individuals also excelled as Kathy Harris and Kevin Bryant were named National Merit Semi-Finalists

OHS students were awarded scholarships that amounted to over $60,000

Student newspaper and yearbook adviser James Elkins was recognized nationally by Columbia Scholastic Press Association with the "Gold Key" Award for long and distinguished service in journalism

This covers the highlight "good news, bad news" for 1981-82 but these were only part of the reasons the year was "the same, but different."

Moods changed daily as no two were the same, but different

here was no certain mood reflected throughout the 1982 school year

Moods seemed to change day by-day

It seemed many students woke up on the wrong side of the bed and carried their "nagging" mood with them all day

For others the fact was obvious they didn't want to be at school for their mood depicted one of uncon cern and apathy

Luckily, there were always the students who could bring a smile to your face with their happy-go-lucky attitude and their carefree actions

Sporting events usually brought a mood of anticipation. The outcome of the game decided if the moods would be excitement or satisfaction or reflected the agony of defeat

Parties and dances got students in the mood to let loose, laugh and have a "good time."

The loss of someone special, a breakup with a girlfriend or boy friend or a tragedy left students in a downcast mood. Sorrow, sadness, pain, dejection and anger were all unwanted but present moods during the vear

Seniors were confronted with an emotion not shared by other students. Graduation brought a variety of moods. For many, the years spent at OHS lingered in their minds While some were anxious to be out on their own, other were fearful of the future

Many emotions and moods mirrored the school year. No two persons had the same view of feeling of another year of high school However, no one could deny OHS was "The Same ... But Different" m 1982
